ELECTRONIC CIRCUIT DESIGN ANALYSIS SYSTEM

Abstract of the Disclosure

A method, apparatus and program product generate package files that are separately stored and selectively combined to generate a net file suited for system simulation and analysis. Selective combination of the package files using respective reference connections of each package enables focused and efficient modeling of design performance characteristics.

5